FOURTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME February 1, 2026

Good News!

By: FR. JOSEPH JUKNIALIS

This season of the Church we call "Ordinary Time" is full of Jesus' teaching about how to live our Christian lives. Today's readings are especially rich. When Jesus takes his place as the New Moses to deliver his Sermon on the Mount, he begins, fittingly, with a new version of the commandments, but instead of "Thou shalt not," they are blessings! And they are paradoxical; always a sign of the divine touch. The "poor in spirit" get the kingdom of heaven; mourners are blessed, for they shall be comforted.

Now, who is supposed to do the comforting? We are. If the beatitudes are new commandments, we disciples are to obey them, even rejoicing in the blessing of persecution. What kind of people sign up for this? Saint Paul describes to the Christians in Corinth what kind of people God chooses: the foolish, the weak, the lowly and despised, the nothings of this world, to shame and confuse those who seem to run things. The wisdom of God seems like nonsense in a world where power reigns supreme. That sweet soul Zephaniah, author of today's first reading, saw the shift coming, from "don'ts" to "dos," from bossy to beatitude: "Seek the Lord, all you humble of the land" (Zephaniah 2:3). You will be "a people humble and lowly" who will pasture your flocks (and do the work God intends you to do) with "none to disturb" you (Zephaniah 3:12, 13). Sign me up for that!

As a pastor overseeing our Catholic school, I am committed to offering every student an education rooted in Catholic values. While parents have a range of choices for their children’s schooling, nothing compares to the benefits of a strong Catholic education.

Parents choose Catholic education for their children for a few solid reasons. First, Catholic schools focus on more than just academics. They care about shaping the whole person. This means your child won’t just learn math and science, but also values like kindness, respect, and a sense of community. Every one is part of something bigger. Another reason is discipline. Catholic schools are known for their high standards and structured environment. This helps the children learn self-discipline and responsibility. Parents also value the religious education that comes with Catholic schooling. It is not just about learning Bible stories. It is about forming a moral foundation that will guide children throughout their lives. And we cannot forget the academic excellence that is foundational to our schools. Catholic schools have high academic standards. They strive to push students to reach their full potential. In a nutshell, parents are looking for an education that does more than fill their child’s head with facts. They want an education that will shape their child’s heart and character. And for many, Catholic schools offer just that.

Blessings of Light

Where you have known darkness, may the light stretch and shine. Where you have dwelt in shadows, may the sun reach its gentle rays. Where you have hidden in shame, may you know light-filled redemption, healing, belonging, and rest in Jesus. Amen. ©LPi

Did You Know? The Church celebrates the feast of St. Paul the Apostle on January 25. Although St. Paul is honored as an apostle, he never met Jesus during His earthly life before the Crucifixion. Instead, Paul encountered the risen Christ in a dramatic conversion experience on the road to Damascus—an event described three times in the Acts of the Apostles. Personally called and sent by the Lord, St. Paul went on to write nearly one-third of the New Testament, shaping the Church’s understanding of faith, grace, and life in Christ.
